C. Computation of Damages

Rule 26(a)(1)(A)(iii) provides for the disclosing party to provide a computation of each category of damages claimed. Subject to her Reservation of Rights, Plaintiff states as follows.

Plaintiff claims the full extent of damages available under New York City Human Rights Law, the New York Labor Law (including the New York Equal Pay Law), and the Fair Labor Standards Act (including the Equal Pay Act). This includes back pay (taking into account all forms of lost compensation and benefits), front pay (taking into account all forms of lost compensation and benefits), payment to cover the additional taxes Plaintiff will incur because of the lump sum nature of a back pay and front pay award, compensatory damages, punitive damages, liquidated damages, pre-judgment and post-judgment interest, and attorneys' fees and litigation costs. Plaintiff reserves the right to supplement this list with additional damages as her investigation in this action continues.

Plaintiff's damages continue to accrue, and Defendants are in possession of documents necessary to enable Plaintiff to calculate her damages fully. Plaintiff will calculate her damages fully based on information exchanged in discovery and based on any expert analysis obtained.

Back pay will be calculated by determining the difference between the amount Plaintiff would have earned, absent Defendants' unlawful conduct, through the entry of judgment, and the amount she actually earns through the entry of judgment. Front pay will be calculated by determining the difference between the amount Plaintiff would have earned, absent Defendants' unlawful conduct, following the entry of judgment, and the amount she is projected to actually earn following the entry of judgment. The calculation of back pay and front pay will account for all forms of lost compensation and benefits, including salary, bonuses, health care and other insurance benefits, and other perquisites.

The payment necessary to cover additional taxes Plaintiff will incur because of the lump-sum nature of a back pay and front pay award will be calculated based on these damages using the applicable federal, state, and local tax rates at the time of trial.

Plaintiff's liquidated damages will be calculated based on the total amount of back pay awarded to Plaintiff.

Plaintiff seeks compensatory damages in an amount to be determined by the jury. This includes compensation for the significant emotional distress and reputational harm that Plaintiff has suffered as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct.

Plaintiff seeks punitive damages in an amount to be determined by the jury.

Plaintiff seeks pre-judgment and post-judgment interest using applicable rates determined by applicable law; interest will be calculated based on other damages awarded to Plaintiff.

Pursuant to applicable fee and cost shifting provisions, Plaintiff will seek an award for attorneys' fees and costs after trial. Plaintiff's counsel's lodestar and costs will be detailed in a submission to the Court at such time as the Court directs.

D. Insurance Agreements

Rule 26(a)(1)(A)(iv) provides for the parties to make available for inspection and copying "any insurance agreement under which an insurance business may be liable to satisfy all or part of a possible judgment in the action or to indemnify or reimburse for payments made to satisfy the judgment." This is not applicable to Plaintiff.
